Drought Maps

For each planting year, at least three drought maps are shown: 1) at the time of planting; 2) end of July (the middle of the worst heat); and 3) at the end of the growing season/time of growth data collection around the first week of October. An additional map may be included if it illustrates a substantial change in drought conditions between the three time periods described above. Vegetative plantings implemented during the calendar year are in parenthesis.
