LOUISIANA WILDLIFE FEDERATION ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR EDGAR VEILLON CONSERVATION LEADERSHIP CORPS

The Louisiana Wildlife Federation (LWF) is accepting applications for an exciting program to assist in the development of future conservation leaders in Louisiana, known as the Edgar Veillon Conservation Leadership Corps (EV-CLC). We would appreciate if you could forward this information on to your colleagues and any students that might be interested in applying. LWF is looking for 15 students for its 2019-2020 training class.

Undergraduate students (freshmen, sophomores, juniors, seniors) are eligible to receive expert training to develop leadership skills and techniques to analyze and develop conservation policies. Participants will also gain experience advocating their conservation resolutions at LWF's Annual Meeting in August 2020. Successfully written and presented conservation resolutions could potentially be adopted by LWF to serve as official policies.

Training will be provided by current and former natural resource professionals in the public, non-profit and private sectors. Students will be presented with real-world issues and experience, and will receive feedback from experts. Training will take place during one weekend in the months of September, November, February, and April.

LWF will cover the cost of lodging and meals during the weekend training sessions. Upon successful completion of the program, each participant will receive a Certificate of Accomplishment for the training program, a letter of commendation for their resume portfolio and a $250 scholarship to advance their continuing education.

Interested EV-CLC candidates must submit their completed application online at lawildlifefed.org/lwf-conservation-leadership-corps-application by May 31, 2019. Candidates will be selected by June 30, 2019. All applicants will be notified of results.

Please visit lawildlifefed.org for more information and to apply online.
